Currency and prices in Prague

Local currency is called Ceska Koruna (Czech Crown, CZK); many places in the city centre also take Euro (EUR) currency.

For exchanging your currency to local CZK, we recommend this exchange office with good rates, which is located about 2 minutes walk from the conference site (website is unfortunately in Czech only, but staff speak both English and Russian):

<http://www.exchange.cz/contact.php#map>

If you print and show them coupon on the link below, they should give you better exchange rates:

International credit and debit cards are accepted almost everywhere. There are also several ATMs located in close vicinity of the conference site as well.

You can find sample prices in Prague here:

Last minute note for conference participants paying their conference fees in cash at the University Cashier's office: they take only local currency (CZK); if you pay in Euros (EUR), please have the exact amount prepared, because there is a possibility that they do not have enough change. Thank you!

Cashier's office is open every weekday (June 3 – June 6, 2014) and located in the same building as the conference, on the first floor, Room 123. It is open weekdays 9-12 a.m. and 2-4 p.m (except Friday when it is open only 9-12 a.m.).

Please just state your full name and code associated with the ISCLR conference (850340).

Map

You can find the location of the conference on the map of the Prague city centre which is attached, marked by red arrows.

Internet

Internet is available via cellular phones network. There will be also free wi-fi connection available at the conference rooms.

You will be given unique username and password to log on the University internet network at the registration desk.

Looking forward to meeting you in Prague!

Petr
